The Door County Maritime Museum is closely monitoring the COVID-19 Novel Coronavirus situation and implementing our Emergency Response Plan that outlines specific recommendations to meet the standards and recommendations made by the Centers for Disease Control (CDC).

With Governor Tony Evers Emergency Order #5 limiting gatherings to no more than 10 people, we are implementing Phase II of our Emergency Response Plan. Phase II means the Door County Maritime Museum will remain open for our guests, but with some important restrictions.

Above all, no one who is sick, or who has had a fever in the last 48 hours should be visiting anywhere, other than their own home.
Please do not come to the museum if you have been ill in any way.

Phase II is the following:

1. Our Museum is OPEN for guests who wish to visit.
2. Visiting the Museum now requires an appointment.
3. The front door will be locked to control access.
4. We are setting aside 2-hour blocks of time for our guests; if you want more, we can manage that.
5. We ask that you call, or check Facebook for the latest on available openings to visit the Museum.

We are taking all necessary, and precautionary measures to keep the Museum a safe environment. In addition to our usual thorough cleaning procedures, we have increased the frequency with which we clean and disinfect all areas of the Museum. In accordance with health guidelines and recommendations, we are encouraging any staff or guests who feel ill to remain at home for the health and safety of others.

Group events originally scheduled to happen in the Museum over the next three weeks are being re-scheduled or canceled. Please check with the Museum or your organization for additional details.

If there are any additional disruptions to our schedules, they will be posted on our website and social media pages.

We are proud to be a part of this great maritime community, and we thank you for your understanding as we all move through these next few, challenging weeks.
